

Svenska Deckarfestivalen

I SUNDSVALL

 Svenska Deckarfestivalen (The Swedish Crime Fiction Festival) is Sweden's longest running festival for crime fiction and mystery literature. The 10th edition will take place November 10 - 12, 2021.

 The festival includes international thrillers, whodunits, classic and innovative police novels, horror, psychological chillers, action adventures, true crime, award winning youth fiction, fantasy and much more.

 A typical edition of Svenska Deckarfestivalen offers about 25 authors on the stage, mostly from Sweden but also from the other Nordic countries and from Europe. We always feature local authors, debutants and children's authors.

 Beyond conversations and interviews with authors about their latest books, the programme also includes lectures and seminars on law, crime and punishment, social issues and forensic techniques. Stage plays, film screenings and other types of "crime entertainment" may also be offered.

 The festival has special proposals for children and teens, such as a short story competition and authors visiting schools for lectures or Q&As.

 Some authors who visited the festival are Olivier Truc, Maj Sjöwall, Håkan Nesser, Arne Dahl, Lars Kepler, Sharon Bolton, Viveca Sten, Pascal Engman, Sophie Hannah, Anders Roslund, Sofie Sarenbrant, Thomas Bodström, Christoffer Carlsson, Emelie Schepp, Peter James, Tove Alsterdal, Hans Rosenfeldt, Åsa Larsson.

 A non-profit association organizes the festival in collaboration with publishers, independent authors, public institutions, educational associations and the local council.
